RED PRISONERS RELEASE U. S. GENERAL

Govt. Orders Gas Be Held In Reserve

Bulk Plants, Big Stations Must Save 5 Per Cent of Supply

DENVER (AP) — A government order reserving supplies of motor gasoline to maintain essential transportation went into effect today in 32 eastern and midwestern states and the District of Columbia

The order, issued by the Petroleum Administration for Defense (PAD), concerns operators of bulk gasoline plants, terminals and large filling stations.

About one-half of all service stations in the area, stretching from the Atlantic seaboard to Kansas and Oklahoma, will be involved, the PAD estimated.

That was the latest step resulting from the 11-day-old strike of refinery and pipeline workers in the oil industry.

Previously, steps had been taken to cut down on use of high-octane aviation gasoline in commercial, private and military fields.

Meanwhile, an extension of the nationwide strike to California was cancelled early today by CIO Oilworkers.

Strike Called Off

At San Francisco, union international representatives James Thornberry said a strike at the Shell Chemical Corp. plant at Pittsburg was called off at the request of union headquarters in Denver.

The decision came as the refinery was closing down part of its operations.

National union headquarters previously had asked California workers to stay on the job because of the role California refineries play in the war effort. It was said, however, such immunity could be ended any time.

The new PAD order holds that supplies may not drop below "3,000 barrels of motor fuel or a quantity equal to five per cent of . . . total storage capacity, whichever amount is smaller."

The 3,000-barrel inventory requirement for bulk plant and terminal operators is equivalent to 126,000 gallons, on the basis of 42 gallons to the barrel.

No Major Shortage

While supplies of automobile fuel are dwindling in some cities and voluntary rationing has been reported in a few areas, the nation is not expected to feel a major shortage of gasoline for at least a month.

PAD officials said they do not expect the average motorist to feel any immediate effect of the latest order. Filling stations generally maintain stocks well in excess of five per cent of their storage capacity.

Local shipments seems most likely in eastern and central states because of difficulties in transporting products to the point of need, the PAD stated.

Airlines continued cropping use of high-octane fuel wherever possible. In recent developments, Eastern Airlines canceled 25 flights between New York City and 26 other eastern cities.

Defense Secretary Lovett canceled all flying activities planned for Armed Forces Day celebrations May 17. United Air Lines today suspended all cargo plane service. Passenger ships carry mail, express and freight

Eastern and Capital air lines have trimmed flights. Air France may pare its Trans-Atlantic service. Military flying has been cut to essentials.

596 Children Examined At School Clinics

A record number of children—596—were examined in the annual pre-school clinics completed Friday, Dr. Martin M. Weinbaum, city health commissioner, reported today.

Few serious physical defects were discovered, he said. Defects appearing most frequently were dental defects and abnormal tonsils. A few hernias were found.

He expressed thanks to the Marion Academy of Medicine, the Marion County Dental Society, the Parent Teachers Association, and the public and parochial schools. All medical, dental, and nursing services employed in the five-day clinic were donated.

The number of children examined at each school were: Forrest Lawn 30, George Washington 44, Glenwood 59, Greenwood 46, Mark 60, North Main 30, Oak 39, Oakland Heights 62, Olney 38, Pearl 85, Silver 49, and St Mary 54.

Steel Unions, Industry File Court Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional resentment over government handling of the steel wage-price crisis simmered today but there were no immediate indications that lawmakers planned to do anything about it.

On the steel front itself, industry, government, and the CIO Steelworkers Union were to file briefs with the Supreme Court today in connection with arguments before the court on legality of President Truman's seizure of the steel industry. Arguments are scheduled for Monday.

Two House committees looking into the steel matter recessed their investigations Friday on an angry but inconclusive note:

The House Armed Services committee left the fate of an anti-strike receivership bill up in the air, with Rep. Kilday of Texas, a senior Democratic member, accusing the Truman administration of staging a "sitdown" strike against the bill by declining to furnish witnesses from the Labor and Justice Departments.

Russians Interfere Again

Bar Allied Patrols From Berlin Road

BERLIN (AP) — Russian sentries barred regular Western military patrols from the Berlin-Helmstedt autobahn today and the three Western commandants of the city said they have called the Russian commander's attention to the matter. He is Gen. Vassily I. Chuikov.

Patrol vehicles were stopped at nearby Babelsberg this morning as they started their routine daily patrols along the 110 miles between Berlin and the Helmstedt, the exit point from the Russian occupation zone to the British. Stiff-faced Russian guards gave no reason for their action.

Regular truck and private vehicle traffic continued rolling as usual, with only the normal stack-up of truckers at each entry where fussy Soviet guards check papers and cargoes. Berlin is a four-power island deep inside the Russian occupation zone

A brief statement released by the Western Allies disclosed they have had trouble about the patrol cars since Thursday night. Text of a letter to Chuikov was not made public, although in their statement the Western Allies said the action as believed due to a misunderstanding, since passage has not been refused at Soviet checkpjoints to East-bound patrols (at Helmstedt)."

Reports Differ

This was at odds with reports from Helmstedt and one Western official said he had not been informed of similar Soviet action there. He conceded it was possible, however. He said if such was the case, it apparently has now been cleared up at that end of the autobahn.

Western officials clearly wanted to soft-pedal their latest tangle with Russian bureaucracy and confided they looked on the whole affair as a tempest in a teapot. Whether it was or not was up to the Russians—and they weren't talking.

Western officials said they planned to do nothing more about the incident at present and indicated they were waiting for the Russians to make the next move. The "misunderstanding" they referred to concerned reported new documents the Russians will require for military patrol vehicles.

Allied Report

This is the text of the Allied statement:

"Since the evening of Thursday, May 8, Soviet authorities at the checkpoint at Babelsberg have not permitted the westward passage of United States and British military police on their normal patrols on the autobahn between Berlin and Helmstedt. The commanders have called General Chuikov's attention to this matter It is believed due to a misunderstanding since passage has not been refused at Soviet checkpoints to east-bound patrols."

The Americans and British maintain the military patrols along this sole highway link between Berlin and the West as a courtesy aid to motorists in trouble and to keep them on the right road.

Allied use of the autobahn is prescribed in four-power agreements just like that setting off corridors for air transports to follow to and from Berlin.

Open House Set Monday At Hospital

Members of the Woman's Board of the Marion City Hospital and also the Junior Woman's Board will join in assisting with the "open house" observance to be held Monday at City Hospital in celebration of "National Hospital Day."

Conducted tours through the hospital have been arranged for residents of Marion and the area who wish to visit the hospital during the day. "Open house" hours have been set for from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon and 7 to 9 in the evening.

In addition to touring through the hospital, visitors will see a special movie dealing with hospital work and activities. Miss Irene Tinklepaugh, hospital administrator, is arranging the event.

For the open house hours in the afternoon, Mrs. Robert Owens, president of the Woman's Hospital Board, and her officers will be official greeters, while other members of the board will serve refreshments. The Junior Woman's Hospital Board will be in charge in the evening with the officers, headed by Miss Louise Guthery as president, serving as greeters.

Mayor Harold F. Robinson has issued a proclamation declaring that Monday be observed as National Hospital Day in Marion and urging all citizens of the city "to join the people of the world in observing that day and to show their appreciation to hospitals whose dedicated services are so important to all of us.

Driver Burns To Death In Fremont Crash

FREMONT, O., (AP) — A truck hauling gasoline burst into flames early today in a collision with an automobile, burning the car driver to death.

Duane Crow, 22, of Fostoria, O., died long before firemen could drag his body from the car. The truck driver Ross W. Richardson, 26, of Sykesville, Md., was taken to Memorial Hospital with severe burns over most of his face and body.

Sheriff's deputies said the two vehicles collided at the intersection of Route 199 and U. S. Route 20, about 12 miles west of Fremont. Both vehicles caught fire.

Delegates to Conventions Selected in Four States

Four states name presidential-nominating delegates today amid fresh talk about hot topics like foreign aid and spending and civil rights.

A total of 62 Democratic and 16 Republican delegates to national conventions at Chicago in July will be chosen at conventions in Nevada, Michigan, Utah and Virginia

In Nevada state conventions, Republicans at Tonopah pick 12 delegates and Democrats at Wells select a 10 - vote delegation. A Democratic convention at Grand Rapids puts together Michigan's 40-vote delegation. Two Virginia district meetings name four more of the state's 23 GOP delegates, six of whom already are chosen. Utah Democrats convening at Salt Lake City name 12.

Two southern Democrats in Washington voiced their views on foreign aid spending — an issue which drew clashing opinions from the top contenders for Republican nomination as president.

Sens. Allen Ellender of Louisiana and Walter George of Georgia sided with Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio and against Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

Eisenhower, allied defense chief in Europe until about June 1, had said any cut deeper than one billion dollars in the proposed $7,900,000,000 foreign aid fund would imperil the nation's security, Taft flatly disagreed, saying a reduction twice that much would not hurt.

Southern Comments

Commenting today, the southern Democrats said:

Ellender—"I think most people will like Taft's position better than Eisenhower's."

George, who expects to stick with the proposed one-billion cut—"I don't think, however, that a two-billion-dollar reduction would do any damage at all"

In New York yesterday, discussions of the Democratic nomination campaign touched on civil rights, the explosive issue which fanned a southern revolt at the party's 1948 convention.

Former Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida told a luncheon gathering his state's close primary last Tuesday indicates the South is growing more liberal on racial questions. The primary was won by Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia by a slim margin over Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Pepper said Kefauver, whom he backed, campaigned openly for a voluntary Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC), which

"Warning" to Key Graft Witness

Ex-Bookie Gross' Brother Beaten Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Two men beat up the younger brother of bookie Harry Gross Friday night as a warning to the gambler to halt his testimony about paying graft to New York policemen.

A city official revealed today the men set upon Jackie Gross, about 24 years old, on West 29th Street, Manhattan, and told him to take it as "a warning to your brother."

He was not seriously hurt. A police guard was given him immediately.

The older Gross shocked a police departmental trial this week by declaring he had paid cash to the three highest police department officials, since retired, to protect his 20 million dollar-a-year bookmaking racket.

He also named more than 100 lesser policemen as being on his payroll and said he had access to police department records.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Victor J. Herwitz, revealed the beating of Jackie Gross. He said the young man called him after the assault. Herwitz and young Gross both conferred later with Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan.

Jackie Gross is single and has been staying at a hotel. He has no police record.

Gives Details

Chief of Detectives George A. Loures said he told this story:

He had a headache and started out for a walk about 9 p.m. Two men grabbed him from behind on 29th Street near Sixth Avenue. They dragged him into a doorway One held him while the other struck him in the face and kicked him in the abdomen.

"Let this be a warning to Harry to keep his mouth shut," one said to him in a "gravel voice' Then the assailants fled.

Gross described the man who attacked him as about 36 years old, five feet 10 or 11 inches tall, weighing about 180 pounds. He had dark hair and wore a blue suit. He described the other man as a little taller.

Young Gross was questioned by police about two weeks ago—and later released—in connection with an extortion threat reported by Deputy Police Inspector Herman Schwartzberg.

Schwartzberg said an unidentified man confronted him April 25 and said:

"I am Jackie Gross, brother of Harry Gross. Unless you and others get it up, more names will be mentioned by my brother"

Schwartzberg later was unable to identify young Gross as the man who confronted him.

Testifies At Trial

The older Gross is testifying at the departmental trial of five police officers in an effort to get a reduction of a 12-year prison sentence for bookmaking.

He wrecked an earlier trial by suddenly refusing to testify after taking the witness stand. But after spending some time in prison he offered to talk in a bid for freedom.

Gross testified Friday he had named the three high officials previously in testimony before a grand jury and expressed wonder they had not been indicted.

He asked whether favoritism was being shown.

This drew an angry retort from the Brooklyn prosecutor who broke up Gross' bookmaking empire that the mere naming of a man by Gross without corroborating evidence was insufficient to indict.

Brooklyn District Attorney Miles F. McDonald, angered by Gross' suggestion that some bribe-takers on the force were allowed to escape prosecution, said that a Brooklyn grand jury indicted everyone against whom it thought it had a case.

Gross and McDonald engaged in their verbal exchange as the dapper, 36-year-old bookie wound up two and a half days of sensational testimony at the departmental trial of five policemen. The trial was adjourned over the week end.

The five are charged with sharing in the million-dollars-a-year graft Gross claims he paid police for protection of his 20-millions-a-year gambling business.

Denies Allegation

Lt. Thomas J. Evans, 44, one of the defendants, was called to the witness stand in his own defense when the city rested after Gross' testimony. Evans denied ever taking graft from Gross, or even knowing the bookie.

But the bookie's testimony that he bribed top police aids of former Mayor William O'Dwyer and that they were not prosecuted overshadowed the proceedings against the five defendants.

Gross named more than 100 policemen, plus former police com-

Calf Stolen From Farm

1st Case of Cattle Rustling in 2 Years

A black Angus bull calf was stolen from a farm owned by Henry Miller of near Marion, owner and operator of Miller's Airport, at 4:30 a.m. today.

This is the first case of cattle rustling in Marion County in more than two years, Deputy Sheriff Elmer Ullom reported today.

The calf was one month old and valued at about $40 by Miller. Tracks and trampled down grass indicated the calf had been lifted over a fence and loaded into a vehicle, Deputy Ullom said.

Miller reported he heard the calf's mother bellowing at 4:30 a. m. today and when he investigated to find out what the trouble was, he found the calf gone. There were 14 other cows in the field, some with calves, Ullom said. The farm is about two miles south of Marion on Route 23.

Convict Enters Chair Fighting

COLUMBUS (AP)—A convicted killer fought himself free from four Ohio Penitentiary guards about to strap him in the electric chair Friday night.

During the few seconds 31-year-old James C. Edwards, Canton, O., Negro, was loose, he shouted:

"I didn't no nothin' to no one! I didn't kill that lady! I haven't done nothin' to nobody!"

Edwards kicked, scratched, and snarled at the guards before they overpowered him, with the help of deputy warden R. B. Eckle. They strapped him in the chair.

A few minutes later it was all over. Edwards died at 8:12 p.m., EST, for killing "that lady"—Mrs. Helena Taubner, 64 - year - old white widow. She was beaten to death during a robbery attempt at her home July 22, 1950.

Accuse U.N. Of Massacre Plot on Koje

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—The United Nations command today flatly rejected a Red accusation that the Allies plan a "massacre" of Red prisoners on Koje Island to rescue Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd a hostage of the prisoners.

In Tokyo, the supreme U. N. commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, angrily told a news conference the kidnaping "is a situation of the Communists' own creation x x x there is no telling to what extent they will build up this incident" and "it may very well affect the Korean truce talks.

In the Panmunjom truce session, North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, referred to two Red inspired riots at Koje previously and declared "yet another massacre will be carried out against the barehanded captured personnel of our side. This is not to be tolerated."

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior U. N. Command delegate, replied:

"The U. N. Command has always attempted to exercise humane methods x x x Some of these captured personnel have taken advantage of these humane policies, have instigated riots and violence among themselves and seized the camp commander. The U. N. command will take whatever measures are necessary to eliminate this intolerable situation and restore control over prisoner of war compounds."

Only one minute of the 12-minute session Saturday was devoted to actual peace talks, tightly deadlocked over the issue of prisoner repatriation. No progress was reported but another meeting was scheduled for Sunday.

Attempt Made To Enter School Shop

An attempt was made to enter the machine shop at Pleasant school some time last night, Deputy Sheriff Elmer Ullom reported today. The lock on the door was broken but entry was not gained. This is the second time this has happened within the last two weeks, Ullom said. Sheriff LeRoy Retterer reported he has ordered his deputies to check school houses in the county as often as possible to forestall any breakins.

Rules Against Rail Unions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice Reed of the Supreme Court today refused to stay a no-strike order issued against three railroad unions.

The order was issued by U. S. District Judge Emerich B. Freed in Cleveland April 23.

Justice Reed made no comment in explanation of his denial of the union's request that the execution of the order be held up. The request was filed Friday.

As Justice Reed turned down the plea for a stay order, the three railroad unions filed with the Supreme Court a request that it review the government's 1950 seizure of the railroads.

The unions asked that the seizure be declared unconstitutional and that the high court rule on the case at the same time it decides whether President Truman has authority to seize the steel industry.

Argument in the steel case will be heard by the Supreme Court Monday.

Koje Camp Commandant Is Unharmed

Gen. Dodd Freed Following Conference Of POW Ringleaders

SEOUL, KOREA (AP) — The U. S. Eighth Army announced tonight that Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd has been released — in good health and good spirits—by Communists prisoners of war on Koje Island.

Dodd, then commander of prison camps on the island, was seized by Red prisoners Wednesday as he conferred with them at the gate of Compound 76.

An Eighth Army statement said the general's release came after a meeting of the Communist ringleaders of the compound. It was attended by prisoner leaders from other compounds on the island.

The conclave of Communist POW leaders came after Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U. S. Eighth Army commander, made it clear he was preparing to use force if the general were not released unharmed.

The terms worked out at the conference of Reds were not immediately disclosed.

An Army spokesman said Dodd would be flown to Seoul Sunday and would hold a news conference. The spokesman said also that correspondents would be allowed to visit Koje Sunday. The island is 30 miles off the southeastern tip of Korea.

Dodd will spend the night with Brig. Gen. Charles Colson, who was appointed commander of the Koje camps the day after Dodd was seized.

Dodd was snatched Wednesday afternoon and dragged inside Compound 76, where 6,000 North Korean die-hard Communists are held. He and another officer, Lt. Col. Robert Raven, Newton, Tex., were standing by the wide, main gate of the compound, talking with leaders of the prisoners.

Lured By Reds

The pair evidently had been lured there by Communist leaders for a conference.

Suddenly the Red POWs grabbed Dodd and hustled him inside the compound. Raven managed to fight his way from the arms of the Reds and escape.

For three days, the Reds held Dodd prisoner, meanwhile negotiating with him for settlement of the prisoner's grievances.

American meals were passed in to the 52-year-old general and he was allowed free use of the telephone inside the compound. Over this telephone he asked camp authorities to refrain from using force to get him out until the Red leaders had completed a list of their demands.

Saturday morning the Army said they had granted some of the Red demands — "minor requests" which included use of a telephone, writing paper and the admittance of prisoner leaders from other compounds on the island. Approximately 80,000 Reds are held on the island — most of them are among the 70,000 prisoners who have said they will return to communism.

Koje has been the scene of two bloody earlier prisoner riots. Crammed behind the barbed wire are many Red die-hards who demonstrate, shout and sing Communist songs.

On Feb. 16, a batch of Reds rioted and 75 prisoners were killed and 135 wounded as American troops opened fire to stop it. One American soldier was killed and 38 wounded. Dodd was named camp commander two days later. Another riot erupted on March 13 and 12 prisoners were killed and 26 wounded.

Blasts Kidnaping

While the Reds held Dodd captive, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, on the eve of his departure for Europe, issued a stinging blast at the kidnaping. He ordered Eighth Army commander James A. Van Fleet to use "whatever force is necessary" to get Dodd out.

The Red propaganda mills seized immediately on the incident and Ridgway order.

North Korean General Nam Il, at the Panmunjom truce talks charged the U. N. was preparing "another massacre" on the island.

Ridgway said at a news conference in Tokyo the Dodd kidnaping "may very will affect the Korean truce talks."

"This is a situation of the Communists' own creation," he said,

Precious Memories

A wanderng Texan recalls scenes of his childhood

One Autumn night in 1923, at his home near Hamlin, Tex., song-writer John B. F. Wright fell to thinking of the days of his youth—days before the family circle was broken and there seemed not a care in the world. Wright was not an old man in 1923, but the Autumn of life was not far away. He was born in Tennessee in 1877, but moved with his parents to Groesbeck, Tex., when he was only 2 years old. And there, 40 miles east of Waco, he spent the happy days of his youth, attended singing school, fell in love and married. But in 1902 Wright took his young bride, left the old home and, as he puts it, "rambled over Texas for many years."

John Wright's mother was one of "the sweetest singers of her generation" and the song-writer's earliest memories are of his father and mother singing together the songs of their youth. It was this early environment that inspired John Wright to write songs of the church, songs now that number more than 300. He might have written more, but he never attempts either words or music without an inspiration. But when the mood strikes, "the words flow faster than I can jot them down."

In 1909 word came to John Wright that his mother had "gone home to glory." Five years later his father died. The now aging song-writer recounts that the loss of his parents had a "tremendous effect on my life" and their memory has lingered through all these changing years."

Past three score and ten now, and crippled, John Wright recently returned to the scenes of his childhood and wrote "They Have Gone Away" and "Calling My Children Home." But it was on the still Autumn night of Oct. 23, 1923, that scenes of the home he had left 20 years before unfolded in the mind of John B. F. Wright and he was inspired to write his famous song. And, he recalls, when his thoughts turned to his own little son whom he buried the year before "I bathed my pillow in tears." Thus, true to the line of the poem, it was actually in the stillness of midnight that J. B. F. Wright wrote:

Precious mem-ries, unseen angels,
Sent from somewhere to my soul;
How they linger, ever near me,
And the sacred past unfold.

Precious father, loving mother
Fly across the lonely years,
And old home scenes of my shildhood,
In fond memory appear.

In the stillness of the midnight
Echoes from the past I hear;
Old time singing, gladness bringing
From that lovely land somewhere.

As I travel on life's pothway,
Know not what the years may hold;
As I ponder, hope grows fonder,
Precious mem'ries flood my soul.

Chorus:

Precious mem'ries, how they linger,
How they ever flood my soul,
In the stillness of the midnight,
Precious sacred scenes unfold.

On Being Useful

A Sermonette

By DR. V. E. BUSLER
Pastor of Epworth Methodist Church

• • •

St. Luke 10:42—"But one thing is needful, and Mary hath chosen that good part which shall not be taken away from her."

• • •

TWO questions are frequently asked, one of the older people and the other of the youth. Of the first, inquiry is made as to the work they are doing Some are bankers, some farmers, some teachers and lawyers, fitting into the various occupations and vocations in life. Of the youth, another question is asked, "What are you going to do?" That is, what will be your life work? The reply comes back, an accountant, a teacher, a farmer, a machinist or one of the scores of occupations that we find in our land. The question to each is a fair one and the reply is the natural one. Today I want to look at this in another way.

Let us ask the question, "What am I doing with my life?" and then find answers as follows:

THE FIRST GROUP of people will say, "I am going to be an acquisitive person. I am going to get all that I can. I am using my talents and my time to acquire." (either money or honor or that which suits the seeker's desire or fancy.) And during all of life, this is the task before the acquisitor—getting more and more and more. This is not sinful if the game is played fairly and squarely. Set apart from their neighbors are the man who sighed for more world's to conquer, or another who built barns and greater barns and said, "Soul, delight thyself in fatness," perfectly satisfied with gaining and getting more and more. Or the rich young ruler who had such great possessions that he could not decide to do anything but to play with them. In fiction we see the rich miser counting his money day after day in real glee like the child. These people have contributed to our lives, amassed great fortunes, many of them, but always with self in mind and serving humanity incidentally. It is always the hope of society that these characters, great in their sphere, will become great for humanity and some of them do.

THE SECOND GROUP of life workers would be the altruistic men and women. These work with a minimum of thought for themselves. They are the people who with their hands and hearts and lives build the great benevolent institutions, the great charitable organizations. They have only themselves to give and this they do with abandon. The world is ever in debt to them. These are the people who give value to life. They make life meaningful.

The Master was the supreme giver. He never wrote a book, a song, a poem, never owned a home or even a lot or a tomb or any other thing but He was always free to do the will of God and be of service to His fellowmen. No one ever accused Him of being selfish or self-seeking or vain or wanting gold and honor. Yet as such He did not condemn gold. The worship of gold He did condemn. The seeking of the best place He though unfit for His disciples.

This is the time of Mother's Day. The average mother is altruistic in spirit and in practice. She does not contribute to get, but to bless. She does not seek reward for her labors of love. It is never hers to wander why the night vigils are so long and the days are so hard. She is a mother, the mother of men. Multiplied millions are Christ's best representatives. When one is not altruistic it is news.

"Mother abandons her child," "Mother neglects her child" is headline news. It is accepted that she will always act as a mother.

THERE IS A THIRD group that needs our attention. Its number is not great but more than most of us realize. It might be called semi-acquisitive and semi-altruistic. Acquiring but to use the acquisition to do good, to be of service to their fellowmen. Here is a business man of really great ability. Out of deep gratitude to God, who has given the ability, he uses one-tenth and gives nine-tenths away to the succor of humanity. Or he sets for himself a modest income and lives within it and all above this he shares with the needy of the world. We have come in touch with a few of these people. They are a delight to the soul of any man. It may be that your neighbor is one of them and little do you realize it. This number is not growing less but increasing day by day.

The Gospel of Christ is set here to make useful men and women and youth. It is not just for the acquisitive or the altruistic but for those who have both in their thinking and living.

We will always have Marys and Marthas each filling their place in the world. It is good to be in the best place and we look to the altruistic people to lead us to that place.

Patrol Lists Five Accidents

No One Seriously Hurt in Crashes

Five accidents occurred on Marion area highways Friday, the state highway patrol reported today.

Cars driven by Albert Kramer, 66, of 986 Uncapher Ave. and Glenn W. Dell, 55, of Newark collided at 11:40 a.m. at the intersection of Route 23 and County Road 136, about two miles south of Marion. Both cars were extensively damaged.

Kramer was cited to appear in Municipal Court today on a charge of failing to yield the right of way.

Taft said he expects to have the support of half of the 1206 delegates — nomination requires a simple majority of 604—when the convention opens in Chicago.

Oregon newsmen, surveyed by the Associated Press on the state's May 16 presidential primary, said they believe Eisenhower and Kefauver will win. The 18 Republican delegates are not bound by results of the primary, but the 12 Democratic delegates are.

All these men were close friends and political appointees of O'Dwyer, now U.S. Ambassador to Mexico. O'Brien and Flath have called Gross a liar.

McDonald's ire apparently was roused by Gross' remark that he named these officers to Brooklyn authorities and the grand jury in 1950. Partly reiterating, Gross said Friday.

"Perhaps someone was taken care of — I don't know. All I know is they were mentioned and they were left out. x x x I discussed it with Mr. Helfand (assistant Brooklyn District Attorney Julius Helfand). I said, is there favoritism here? But he told me not to try to be a lawyer."

Delaware Dam Area Farmland May Be Leased

(Special to The Star)

DELAWARE — There is still a possibility farmers may be able to lease land in the Delaware dam area this year.

This information was released following a hearing in Columbus Thursday between Army engineers from Cincinnati and Huntington, W. Va., state conservation officials, farmers and sportsmen.

Harry Pockras, chief civilian engineering assistant at the Huntington office, acted as spokesman for the Army engineers.

At the conclusion of the hearing, he said.

"We will ask Director Marion of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources to review his overall program in Delaware reservoir area. If Natural Resources can release land that will not affect their program this year, and can turn it back to us, we could affect leases possibly by June 1. If not then, perhaps in time for wheat planting this fall."

The Army engineers had refused to permit leasing of land to farmers earlier on the basis that it would mean entering a contract with a "third party".

Pockras explained that at the time of the January flood, which was the start of the present complaints, failure of telephone communications at Delaware during the storm prevented orders getting through to Michael Smith, dam tender. Gates were not closed until around midnight, after extensive flooding in southern Liberty township.

"We were also dealing in human lives," said Pockras. "The pumping station at Waldo had not been completed, and we could not close the gates entirely because of danger of flooding that community."

The station has since been completed. A new manual of "flood gate technique" instructions drawn up about three months ago, will give local dam tenders more leeway to act in case of emergencies than previously, Pockras said.

Other Army Engineers present at the hearing Thursday included C. E. Fulmer, chief, flood project operations branch, and Colonel E. R. O'Brien, acting district engineer, both from Huntington, W. Va.; E. E. Abbott and Bruce Gilchrist, engineers from the Cincinnati office.

Dodd

"and in their world, where neither logic nor truth has any value. There is no telling to what extent they will build up this incident."

The indication was that Ridgway thought the Communist truce negotiators would use the kidnaping of Dodd and the U. N. threat to use force if necessary to gain his release to stall or even break off the armistice talks at Panmunjom.

Ridgway will leave Monday to become NATO commander in Europe.

Ridgway's successor, Gen. Mark W. Clark, also attended the conference.

Clark told newsmen "It probably would be better to move Gen. Dodd to a new assignment if we get him out alive."

Dodd was commander of prisoner compounds on Koje when he was seized while conferring with Reds at an open gate. Brig. Gen. Charles F. Colson of Charleston, S. C., was placed in command of the prisoners on the island the day after the prisoners captured Dodd.

The compound in which Dodd was hidden contains 6,000 prisoners. There are 80,000 prisoners on the island. Most of them have told U. N. negotiators that they wish to be repatriated to North Korea.

Governors Ask Senate Slow Action on Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A majority of the nation's governors have advised the Senate they do not believe a voluntary nation-wide presidential primary bill sponsored by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) should be made effective this year.

Several of the state chief executives revealed strong interest in the idea of letting voters throughout the country express their opinions on whom the major parties should nominate for President.

But about 25 of the 40 who answered a Congressional poll said they either were opposed to federal meddling in the election machinery, or believed the Douglas Bill for various reasons would be impractical this year.

The poll was made by the Senate Rules Committee which has been considering the measure. It has not yet acted on it.

Douglas said in introducing the bill that he hoped it would go into effect in time to guide the July, 1952 Republican and Democrat National conventions.

It is designed to encourage all states to hold presidential primaries before July 1 in a national election year. The state election machinery would be used but the federal government would pay up to 20 cents a vote to help defray the cost.

IRIS

Since the days when they were known as German Irises and existed in often indifferent combinations of brown and yellow or muddy blues and purples, Bearded Irises have undergone radical changes. Their present color range now includes varieties which can be classified as pink. The Bearded Iris is not bothered by extremes in heat or cold. It does insist on full sun and perfect drainage, but grows well in a clay soil, a sandy loam, or will even flower in soils of indifferent fertility. Of course, the blooms will be best in a good soil, deeply prepared, which may be slightly alkaline, acid or neutral. Fertilizers high in nitrogen should be avoided—use those containing phosphorus and potash. Divide Iris clumps after they have finished flowering and when they have been in the same place for three years. Mulching Iris clumps for the winter is hardly ever necessary, perhaps only when planting has been late in the summer and the roots have not had time to take hold.

A Billion More or Less

THE apparent dispute between Gen. Eisenhower and Sen. Taft over what would be a safe paring of foreign-aid funds in the new budget tells the story of a basic uncertainty in the popular mind.

Both men agree that foreign aid is imperative. They agree that the amount of the aid must be determined not only by foreign need but by this country's ability to pay.

Gen. Eisenhower, being close to the need, is naturally inclined to place primary emphasis there. Sen. Taft, having dealt first-hand with the problems of federal finance during his years in Congress, naturally concentrates his attention there.

As the issue lies between the two leading candidates for the Republican presidential nomination, it is a difference of opinion about degree. Eisenhower has opened the door to a cut of approximately a billion in a presidential request for $7.9 billion.

Taft indicates that a cut of twice that much would not be out of line.

The Truman administration, meanwhile, is standing pat on a figure of 7.9 billion, with no cuts of any amount whatsoever under any circumstance.

In the popular mind it seems reasonable to suppose there is more favor for some reduction than for no reduction at all. That is because in the popular mind the need for foreign aid is related directly to consciousness of federal taxation and to the hard fact that it is hurting the people's ability to support local government.

Perhaps if Gen. Eisenhower had been in Congress as long as Sen. Taft and the senator had been in Europe as long as the general, their opinions would be transposed. It is significant, however, that both men stand opposed to the stand-pattism of the Truman administration on a $7.9 billion appropriation.

Prison Riot at Koje

IF A FEW prison authorities at home indulge In a wry smile at the news of a prison-camp riot staged by captive Communists in far-off Koje, they can be forgiven.

The Koje Communists managed to seize and hold Brig. Gen. Francis E. Dodd as a hostage, which is better than the rioters in New Jersey and Michigan prisons dreamed of being able to do.

They did this in spite of military rule and security, which hardly can be compared to the restraints placed on prison authorities in the United States.

And they did not do it because the press and radio, or even television, blueprinted a procedure for them. These services are not available at Koje prison camp.

But prisoners do not vary much the world over. They resent imprisonment and the hard conditions of imprisonment. They take advantage of every possibility of getting a better deal, if a better deal is potential.

Among the prisoners held by the Chinese Communists, there is no hope of a better deal. There are no prison riots among them, because violent death would be the automatic result. That in itself reveals the fundmental difference between a society in which authority cannot be questioned, let alone challenged, and a society in which even a prisoner dares to assert himself.

Both Feet Pinched

UNION spokesmen are "shocked," they say, by a proposed law to let the federal government seize both industries and unions in order to avert strikes.

That evens up the shock which steel management sustained when President Truman seized steel properties with no law at all. It might bring some belated sense to everybody who has encouraged the tendency to precipitate one crisis after another in industrial relations, then scream for the government to rush to the rescue with injunctions, seizure orders and all-night conferences.

If that is what these people want, that is what they will get—and all the rest of us will have to make the best of it. It won't be very good. It is not very good right now.

But if what everybody wanted was a society in which the dream of its founding fathers could be realized—their dreams of a society of equals held together in a pattern of tolerance and compromise—there would be no question about federal coercion to keep irreconcilable factions from paralyzing the country.

The United States would not be drifting into the exact fate of deadlock which was predicted a century ago by Karl Marx—a head-on collision between what Marx thought of as the contradictory forces of capital and labor.

The half-Marxists of creeping socialism and state capitalism are standing by to pick up the pieces. They are moving in close, reaching out for the chance they have waited for so long—the chance to seize both property and people and to use them as they see fit for the "preservation" of the state.

Tax Law "Loopholes"

By David Lawrence

Will Democrats Still Want To Close Them

WASHINGTON

JUST A FEW weeks ago some of the Democratic senators were talking about the necessity of closing the "loopholes" in the tax laws. It will be interesting to see how solicitous the Senate and House will be about "loopholes" now that Senator Williams of Delaware has revealed the curious method by which campaign contributors to the New York State Democratic committee were able to get a tax deduction for what apparently was a political contribution.

The Federal Corrupt Practices Act, in barring political contributions by corporations, puts a "loan" in the same category as a contribution. In the cases exposed by Senator Williams, individuals made loans to the New York State Democratic Committee and then claimed that the loans could not be repaid in full and hence the unpaid balances were deductible as losses, or bad debts, for income tax purposes.

There is no law against an individual making a loan—or, for that matter, a contribution—to a political committee. But the question of whether such a contribution is a legitimate business expense for the individual is one that has many novel aspects.

Thus, it is true that many individuals who are engaged in business make campaign contributions with the expectation that they will receive governmental favors if the political party that they support, or the individual candidate that they help, wins the election. If their favorite candidate is defeated, it is obviously a risk, and the Treasury, when confronted with losses, due to speculation, does not make any distinction between ventures engaged in with a hope of profit and those which are engaged in as a result of poor judgment.

BUT THE REAL question is whether a loan made to a political committee can be regarded as an investment or even as a business expense on the part of an individual. Certainly it is something new to have the Bureau of Internal Revenue declare that loans made to a Democratic political committee could not have been paid off and that hence losses could be deducted on the portion of the loan which was not reimbursed. The State Democratic Committee is a continuing body. The loans in question, which were made several years prior to the time when a ruling was first asked of the Bureau of Internal Revenue in 1948, apparently were not paid because the State Democratic Committee claimed that it did not have the money to reimburse the lenders. But it probably did raise money in subsequent campaigns through later contributions.

Every political committee goes in the hole during a campaign and usually makes up the deficit after election. Political committees of the losing party have a harder time collecting contributions after election day then those which are victorious at the polls. But because political committees exist from campaign to campaign and have a certain power to raise money at all times, it is rather surprising that the Treasury Department took the position that, because the loans had not been repaid, they never could be repaid.

The U. S. deputy commissioner of internal revenue took the view that the New York State Democratic Committee "has no assets of any consequence" and that "'throwing the committee into bankruptcy would have accomplished nothing towards the payment of the obligations."

THIS RULE IS OFTEN invoked in business transactions and the courts have ruled that a bad debt deduction can be claimed in the year in which there is a fixed event or some circumstance that determines definitely that the debt cannot be collected. But the question really does not turn so much on whether a Democratic State Committee is analogous to a business. The problem is related solely to the question of whether, in the guise of a loan, a political contribution has been made. The issue is whether there was at any time a "loan transaction" or whether continuously there was an understanding that at least a part of the sums would be written off as unpaid loans.

The Treasury Department usually looks to the nature of the transaction in its rulings, and a loan to a political committee would on its face, in most instances be regarded as a contribution, because political committees notoriously are unable to accumulate assets or to give security to the lenders.

It seems probable that legislation on the subject of political loans as taxable deductions will be included in future tax legislation.

Regulations X and W

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

REGULATION X—the government control on new home buying—seems bound to be with us a while even though Regulation W—the control on installment buying—has been dropped.

Regulation X requires large down payments on new homes. Regulation W required fairly large down payments on durable goods and definite limits on when the balance could be paid off.

Both were intended to be anti-inflationary and, at the same time, save on materials which the government uses. Both were imposed in the fall of 1950, after the Korean outbreak.

Following the start of shooting, there was a wave of buying. Prices started up. The Federal Reserve Board issued its Regulation W Sept. 8, 1950.

Under W you had to make a one-third down payment on automobiles, with the rest paid off in 18 months. On nearly all appliances, furniture and floor covering, Regulation W required 15 per cent down, the rest in 18 months.

—:—

THIS WAS WIFED out Wednesday. The stores are bulging and now the fears of late 1950, that scarcity of goods would bid up prices, no longer holds.

With W gone, storekeepers are free to make whatever deals they want with their customers on the size of down payments and time-limits for paying the rest.

Installment buying has a gigantic place in the American economy, for in 1950 about half of the 29 billion dollars which the public paid for durable goods was on the installment plan.

There has been opposition to the retention of Regulation X—for example, from the National Association of Real Estate Boards (NARB)—but the Federal Reserve people who imposed it in October, 1950, still think it's necessary.

One thing is certain: Regulation X, requiring an unusually large down payment on a new home, has slowed up the sales of new homes. The middle-income groups who could make small down payments but not big ones.

—:—

BUT AT THE FEDERAL Reserve Board this explanation was given for keeping Regulation X while W was abandoned:

It is still an anti-inflationary measure to discourage large and long-term borrowing on mortgages and there is the further problem of housing materials:

It was said the outlook on these materials is still not completely clear because, for one thing, of the possibility of strikes that might cut down on the supply of such materials as aluminum, steel, copper.

Congress may have a deciding hand in whether Regulation X is kept in effect. It is considering the problem now while it ponders the question of renewing the Defense Production Act.

That act, which expires June 30 unless Congress renews it, gives the government wide controls over prices and materials. Congress may renew the act but decide Regulation X can go.

Hibernation Season

Where Our European Policy Has Failed

By George E. Sokolsky

SOONER OR LATER it will have to come out that in spite of the expenditure of billions of dollars, our policy in Western Europe has failed in its essential objective, which is the ultimate defeat of Soviet Russia by diplomacy, psychology or war. Further, that although the American taxpayer has spent tens of billions of dollars on defense since 1945, our Army and Air Force are inferior to those of Soviet Russia. Secretary of Defense Lovett confirms that, but only to frighten Congress into giving him more money.

Thus far, NATO has not produced anything like the army which General Eisenhower envisaged when he asked Congress to give him four divisions. At Lisbon, NATO was reorganized, with an Englishman, Lord Ismay at its head. The explanation that it is not Eisenhower's plan that we meet Russia man for man, plane for plane, as General Alfred Gruenther has been saying in his speeches in this country, can only be accepted as a recession toward the position of Herbert Hoover, who has opposed the widespread use of American ground troops in Europe.

NATO's initial task is to produce a European army. That has not been accomplished. Those who speak of NATO's success have little point to make, except that a European war did not happen in 1951 nor is there immediate prospect of war in 1952.

For this, NATO cannot take credit, as Russia could today take the initiative in a fighting war, if Stalin wanted to do that, with little fear or effective resistance on the continent of Europe. The reason that war has not come is that the Russians are convinced that they are successful in Asia, which is important to them, and that they are damaging the economy of the United States without firing a shot or losing a man.

THE SO-CALLED Russian "peace" campaign is based on the assumption that if the United States is forced to spend huge sums on rearming itself and all the non-Soviet countries, the burden will be too great to carry and the American economy will collapse.

Meanwhile, they are building an East-West trade designed not only to supply them but to embarrass us. A phase of this embarrassment is the conflict between the United States and Great Britain over the economic future of Japan, a conflict which can force Japan into the arms of Soviet Russia.

Trade will flow wherever it can without regard to political issues. Even in time of war, trade tries to move where it has no business to go, often through neutral countries. It is like the matter of Polish hams, which have found their way into the American market in spite of the fact that the sale of Polish commodities provides Poland with American dollars, which, in Europe, are of political as well as economic value.

A reader sent me a letter on this subject, written two years ago by Martha Deane, the radio commentator, in which Miss Deane quotes the Atalanta Products Corporation:

"'. . . And we certainly cannot expect to retain or win the favor of friendly peoples in satellite nations under Russian domination, if we insist on treating them all as lepers, incapable of producing even a canned ham without Communist contamination . . . "

—:—

WHO ARE THESE friendly people? Poland is today as much a part of the Soviet empire as Russia or China or Czechoslovakia. That empire seeks our destruction and the flow of dollars in its direction is a peril to our stability. Belatedly, the State Department has reduced the trade between the United States and Soviet countries and now has cut off travel, all of which is correct because it reduces the flow of dollars.

It is a definite phase of the Russian program to encourage the East-West trade, which supplies them with commodities they require and increases the flow of American dollars into Soviet countries. The economy of the Soviet empire is dominated by the Kremlin without regard to national barriers and is used to achieve political as well as economic ends. It is the very same method that the Kremlin employed to encourage British trade in Soviet China in order to separate Great Britain from the United States politically.

NATO is too limited in scope and places too great a burden upon one country, the United States. Our policy must be related to our own economy, if we are to survive this war of attrition.

Mechanical Fallacy

By TRUMAN TWILL

THIS MORNING, an acutely sick unit of rural-life machinery was carted off to the spare parts hospital for rehabilitation. Its breakdown produced an emotional climax.

At the exploding point in the climax, the owner—angry, frustrated and bleeding at the knuckles—had jumped up and down in infantile helplessness and croaked hoarsely to anyone who might be listening, "Get me a horse!"

On the same day, another piece of machinery, with no apparent reason, had stubbornly refused to perform until a fledgling had tinkered it ineptly and haphazardly—whereupon it popped off and ran like a charm, but only for the fledging.

Every summer in RFD the same thing happens, not just to this victim, because his ignorance of machinery is so abysmal it could account for anything, but to all victims of a deep and far-reaching fallacy of the machine age.

This is the fallacy that labor can be saved by systematic application to outdoor chores of the principle that energy produced artificially is a substitute for the natural energy of human beings and draft animals.

The truth is that such energy is a supplement, never a substitute. Harnessing it and keeping it effectual becomes in itself an expenditure of energy. The mechanized farmer of the 20th century is able to peform his miracles of production only by the grace of a greater miracle of mechanical ingenuity.

If by chance he lacks this essential qualification, he would be better off with a yoke of oxen and the primitive "attachments" with which farmers toiled in that remote era before agriculture was mechanized. He would save at least a great waste of nervous energy.

NO ONE CAN BEGIN to imagine the endless tinkering and coaxing required to keep mechanization from turning to chaos. Every rural region needs a large force of welders and mechanics working full time to help out the owners of the machines.

The owners put in less time at their job of producing the same quantities of foodstuffs and fibers than before, but their saving in time is offset in large part by the hours required to keep their machinery in running order.

This is not to argue that the game is not worth the candle it consumes, certainly not in the case of real farmers. They couldn't begin to do what is expected of them without machinery. But it does argue that amateurs who lean on the machinery fallacy to support a wishful thesis that rural life has been simplified by internal combustion engines and hoot-nannies which wiggle and waggle like things possessed are going to wind up someday in a blind rage, screaming, "Get me a horse!"

If there were no better reason, it would be more satisfactory to swear at a horse than at a pile of inert metal shapes. The horse could hear. If kicked, it could kick back and clear the air. It could whinny, "Get me a man!"

Moscow Spy at Cocktail Parties

COCKTAIL PARTIES in Washington are responsible for grave leakage of top secrets, it is charged. There could be something to this. We are getting a lot of government by cocktail, in fact it seems at times that Washington has more cocktail parties than it has government workers. There are scores of parties where by 8 p.m. almost every guest is taking a slant at the Washington monument and saying, "They ought to do something about that Leaning Tower of Pisa."

• • •

We have just obtained a copy of a Russian agent's report of secret data obtained by him at such affairs:

APRIL 26—Cocktail party tonight extra big. Can report America has at last surpassed U.S.S.R. in drink potency. Martini is now distinct threat to all peace-loving peoples. Extra dry one has devastating power. Attempted to make personal test but blacked out too soon.

• • •

APRIL 28—Drinking situation is revealing highly important developments. America now has "Mystery Hors d'Oeuvre" or "Flying Saucer Canape." Can kill extensively. Also has great disabling qualities. New one with cream cheese, ground onions, sardines and chicken livers on damp toast worse than germ warfare. If this is ever dropped on us all is lost.

• • •

APRIL 30—My operation "Tie One On" progressing favorably. U.S. is definitely planning war in which women will dominate. Reference to "Nellie," "Genevieve," "Kathleen" and "Sally" stands out in all cocktail party songs. Nellie evidently leader, with much talk about seeing her home, waiting until the sun shines, etc.

• • •

MAY 2—Alarming reference to several new female characters at tonight's parties. Annie Laurie, Caroline and Susanna. Last named coupled with talk of banjo on knee. Suspect this refers to new bazooka. Received your instructions to determine U.S. war plans indicated through "East side, west side," "By the old mill stream" and "You take the high road and I'll take the low road." American groups gather in quartettes and chant these lines at all parties after fifth drink. Advise check on location U.S. Korean forces with reference mill streams, etc. Considerable mention last night of Swanee River may be significant.

• • •

MAY 7—Another mystery woman being mentioned in capitalistic war plans. Jeanie with the light brown hair. Hope to break code and clear up constant appearance of "June" and "Moon" in groups over beside piano. Broke into quartette tonight which kept singing something about "The old doken nukket the iron blonde bucket" also "Around her neck she yore a wellow gibbon." May indicate increased belligerency.

• • •

MAY 9—Unable report today. Last night's party gave first public test of a martini five parts gin, one part vermouth. Everything within eight blocks destroyed. Protected self by crawling under portable bar and holding paper napkin over head, but am in bad shape.

SHERMAN SHREWWS Schaffer says he is glad to hear that the "Shrulitzer Shrize was swun by The Shrike and shroffer it my swarmest conshratulations." . . . The first words of a New Jersey bank vice president after his arrest for a $400,000 shortage was "I am too dazed to think fast." . . . If you're dazed, bub, think of the depositors. . . . Scotty Robb, the big-league umpire fined for giving a belligerent ballplayer a slight push, has resigned. . . . He got out as soon as he realized he was supposed to be an instructor in a dancing school. . . . The American home being what it is today we wonder why the Mother of the Year contest doesn't give way to a Baby Sitter of the Month contest. . . . The Wasp couldn't have come out of it in worse shape if she had tangled with a Wage Stabilization Board and left everything to arbitration.

VANISHING AMERICANISMS

"I'm not too sure of this, etc."

Confident Living

The Secret Of Energy And Vitality

By Norman Vincent Peale

EVER SINCE I was a boy, I've been a baseball fan and, consequently, I'm proud to have a number of major league ball players among my friends. We aren't accustomed to thinking of professional athletes as religious people, but many of them are profoundly religious.

One well-known baseball star credits his success in the game to practicing his religion. He became interested in God's way of living as a youngster, but as he grew older, began to wonder if it was really practical. Then he met a minister who showed him a new approach.

Dr. Peale

"If you will believe the Bible and actually practice its teachings, you will find that it will work. God will go out there on the baseball diamond with you and will help you to do your best," the pastor told him.

"Do you really mean that God will be in the ball park with me?"

"Yes, I do," came the answer.

Because my player friend is one of those great souls with a genuine capacity for faith, he believed what he had been told. And, more, he acted on it. Every day, when he comes out on the field for the game, he says, "Hello, Lord." A little familiar, perhaps; but there's never any disrespect in love and sincerity. "Hello, Lord. I want to thank you for this beautiful day, this wonderful game of baseball and all of the players in it, even those on the other team."

HE BEGAN TO FEEL his efficiency increase each day and become sure that his prayer was being heard and granted. He even got to the point where he could add to his daily prayer: "I want to thank you for the umpire, too."

One hot day, the temperature out on the field rose to an unbearable degree. After the fourth inning, my friend felt utterly depleted and exhausted; he thought about asking to be taken out of the game. Then suddenly a Bible passage he'd read passed through his mind. And he stood there in the pitcher's box, mopping his brow and repeating these words: "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not grow weary; they shall walk and not faint."

"Pretty soon," he told me later, "I felt cool and fresh. I could feel strength coming back to me. I lost nine pounds in that game. But, I finished with energy and vitality to spare. Nothing could knock me out of that box."

RELIGIOUS FAITH isn't something theoretical. It is a practical technique of living when you actually practice its formulas. If you conceive of God as a source of energy and vitality and draw on that source, you will learn the secret of fresh strength, greater vitality and renewed energy. When you begin to feel run down, when your energy is depleted, when your vitality begins to run out, just turn to God and say: "God, you are the source of all energy. You are the source of the energy in the sun. You are the source of the energy in the atom. You are the source of vitality in my body, in my mind, in my life. I hearby draw energy from you as from an illimitable source." Paraphrase the Scripture by personalizing it. "In Thee I live and move and have my being."

Having done this, believe that you do receive this transfusion of power. It's as simple as that. "They that wait upon the Lord" with absolute faith, get new energy in such measure that they "mount up . . . as eagles". The essence of this technique is to be simple and to have absolute belief that you can get a renewal of energy. And you can, if only you will believe and practice being renewed.

Have faith in God as your source of energy and vitality. Draw upon it in the manner suggested above and you will have adequate power in your life.

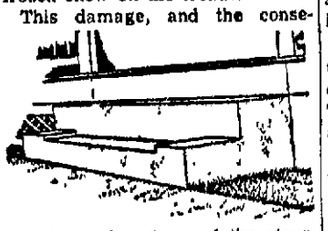
How To Retread Concrete Steps

No doubt everyone has noticed how concrete steps and platforms have been damaged by ice-choppers and sharp shovels, which have been used to cut away dangerous accumulations of ice and frozen snow on the treads.

This damage, and the consequent wearing down of the steps, is chiefly caused by the fact that a depression made with a sharp edge allows both sides of the cut to wear down far more rapidly than a flat surface. Steps which have been so hacked away soon "dish out," or form a shallow hollow in the center, which is a further invitation for ice to form there



Nine times out of ten, a step which is in this condition can be repaired quickly and neatly by a simple re-treading process as shown by the accompanying drawing

This job consists merely of cutting a one-inch deep section out of the step where it is worn down This requires a sharp cold chisel and a heavy hammer. Great accuracy or careful cutting is not essential, as the entire idea is simply to get a good rough surface with defined ends to hold the new concrete.

When the surface is cut out far enough, it should be thoroughly dusted off and then wetted down heavily. This is to prevent the old dry concrete from drawing all the water out of the new mix and causing it to shrink. The next step is to place a board against the front edge of the step and secure it there so as to form an even edge and hold the new concrete in place Next, a package (or two or three) of prepared concrete is mixed with water according to the directions and slushed into the depression. After an hour or two this is troweled off to a high finish and then the repair is covered with wet burlap or old cloths and kept dampened or two days. This prevents too rapid a dryout, which might cause some shrinkage in the new material.

Moss On A Brick Terrace

Q.: We have a brick terrace which was laid without mortar. Although the area gets several hours of sunshine each day, the bricks are covered with a coating of moss and what may be algae. This coating can be swept off partially, but soon comes back. Is is so slippery that it is a nuisance Is there any kind of application I could use on the brick that would kill the moss and prevent its growth?

A.: Since the brick was laid without mortar, I assume that you have grass growing between the brick. There are various types of preparations and compounds that will kill the moss but in their use it will be likely that the grass will also be killed off. The following treatment may be satisfactory Brush off all traces of the moss with a wire brush and then apply a couple of coats of a transparent waterproofing

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID O. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

(First in a Series on Finishing Attics)

—:—

CONVERTING an unfinished attic into extra rooms is the easiest and most economical method of enlarging a house.

So much less lumber and less work are required to finish an attic in contrast to adding a wing to a house that there is no comparison. A wing not only involves excavation, foundation and relatively costly construction of outer walls and roof, but it also necessitates destruction of a certain amount of existing construction where the new addition is joined to the house.

This problem of expanding a house is the center of one of the major architectural controversies over small house design. The big question is whether to plan new houses with any attics at all. Building costs are so high over old levels, unless you allow for general inflation and changes in income, that many architects advocate the elimination of attics along with basements. They champion low pitched or flat roofs to save the cost of constructing attic space.

So if you have an attic, as most older houses have, you can consider yourself lucky. That big barn-like space up there under the rafters can provide a dandy playroom for children and can be inexpensively converted into bedrooms when children require separate rooms of their own.

THE FIRST THING to determine is the strength of the joists. When an attic is built without any access, it is very possible that the joists may be inadequate for the combined dead and live loads of livable rooms. When the use of an attic is not anticipated, ceiling joists merely have to be strong enough to hold up the lath and plaster under them.

For a storage attic, joists usually are only slightly stronger and still not heavy enough for rooms to be occupied. Then if you plan to add an extra bathroom in an attic, even stronger framing is called for. So check the joists, either by comparing their sizes and spans with the joists under the main floor, or have a competent carpenter inspect them. Almost any carpentry manual will show the spans and loads that are safe for various joist sizes and wood species.

Stronger joists can be installed if needed, so this precaution is not a matter of throwing cold water on your dream attic.

THE NEXT POINT to figure on is headroom. Establish lines on either side of the attic, under the roof pitch, where you will have a 5-foot rise from floor to rafters for studs to provide nailing space for wallboard. Lathing and plastering is generally rated as too much of a luxury these days for attic remodeling, so for economy you'll probably use some form of wallboard.

Decorative insulating board is available, but even more complete insulation will pay in the long run. Here you can take your choice among the various cellular batts, such as the mineral wools; or loose fill insulators for flat surfaces, such as vermiculite, or reflective metal foil insulation.

If you use metal foil, install it snugly between studs and rafters with all joints as tight as possible. Make certain that you leave an air space on each surface. If you slap it up against outer walls you destroy much of its insulating quality by making it a conductor and you have a vapor barrier in the worst of all possible places — where warm inner air condenses against the cold surface.

Properly installed reflective insulation has many advantages and the accordion pleated type, which is double with an space between, rates very high in efficiency.

* * *

MODERN BUILDING materials also make the enclosing of attic rooms a comparatively simple job. Ordinary paper composition wallboard, gypsum wallboard that is virtually prefabricated plaster, fiber boards and the pressed wood hardboards all come in large sheets—the commonest being 4 by 8 feet.

Although the work of installing these sheets goes faster with two men, it is entirely possible for one man to handle them easily even in fastening them to the ceiling. A T-brace, made by nailing a piece of 2 by 4 across one end of a piece long enough to prop up from floor to ceiling will support one end of a sheet of wall board while the other end is temporarily inserted in an H-brace to allow for nailing.

Inexpensive wallboard can be painted, papered, left with its natural finish, or obtained in predecorated form.

* * *

(NEXT: Installing wallboard and finishing floors)

ONE MAN can install gypsum wallboard panels on attic ceiling by using a T-brace to hold end of the material. Notice insulation shown between rafters and ceiling joists.

Student From Peru Talks To Church Group

Theme of a May breakfast and program for the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church Wednesday morning was South America. The breakfast was served by circles 5 and 6 at 11 in the Recreation Room at the church, and table decorations by Miss Mabel Wheatley featured her collection of South American dolls grouped around tropical fruit and green leaves.

Miss Lucy Vargas of Lima, Peru, who has been living at the Henry Mickley home on St. James St. was the special guest, and her mother, who had just arrived in Marion, was present. The young student, who came here about a year ago, is attending Vernon Heights Junior High School. In Peru, she attended a private school supervised by a Methodist missionary. During a panel discussion, she described life in her home country. The program was in charge of Miss Helen May. Phoebe Frew conducted devotions and the panel discussion on South America was given by a group of junior high school students. Joy Butterworth was leader, and taking part also were Phoebe Frew, Connie Ward, Jim Ferguson, Dick Barnhart, Ruth Mickley and Connie Bartram.

The principal language taught in her former school is Spanish, Miss Vargas said, but English is a required subject. The people celebrate many of the same holidays as this country observes. A carnival there preceding Lent is similar to the Mardi Gras in New Orleans. Protestant churches in that country are like those in this country in method of conduct and organization. Connie Ward explained the symbol of the Evangelical Christian Youth organization in Brazil and Paraguay. Prayer was given by Ruth Mickley. Following the program, Mrs. Clark Fouts conducted business.

42 Real Estate Transfers Filed With County Recorder

Forty-two real estate transfers were listed in the office of Mrs. Grace Zachman, Marion County recorder, during the week ended May 3, four more than for the week previous.

Cub Scout Den Wins Prize For April Attendance

When Cub Scout Pack 9 met recently at the Jewish Temple on E. Center St., "Cubby" a miniature Cub Scout figure, was introduced. The symbol will be used as an award passed on each month to the den having highest percentage of members and parents present at the pack meeting. Den 2 was the winner for April.

Walter Kelsey, chairman of the May planning committee, announced arrangements for the members to attend a high school track meet at the Harding High School stadium. Plans were made for carrying out the May theme, "Strength and Skill." At the weekly meetings, each den will prepare for a track meet of the pack to be held after a picnic May 28. A skit was presented on the April theme, "Things That Grow."

Awards were made to David Weinbaum, Tommy Osborn, Bobby Finney and Walter Kelsey Jr., wolf badges; Jax Carroll, Ken Coffae, Jim Maginn, Bary Salzman and Gary Myers, glod arrows; John Farley and Andy Eiseman, bobcat pins, Tom Powers, bear badge and gold arrow; Aaron McGuffin, gold arrow, silver arrow and lion badge; John Peterson, one-year service star and assistant denner stripe; Martin Altmaier, one-year service star; and John Kyle, denner stripe.

Plan Wyandot 4-H Conference

UPPER SANDUSKY—The annual 4-H Officer-Advisor-Parent conference will be held Wednesday, at the Upper Sandusky High school starting at 8 p.m. All of the 4-H club officers throughout Wyandot county are to be present as well as all of the 4-H Advisors and parents of 4-H club members.

According to W. W. Wharton, associate county agent, the participants of the conference will divide into discussion groups; all of the club presidents and vice presidents in one group, all of the club secretaries in another group, treasurers in another. Groups will also be held for news reporters, recreation leaders, advisors and parents.

Wharton stated that as a part of the program, Mrs. H. L. Whenner, chairman of the Wyandot County 4-H Golden Anniversary Committee would explain the plans of her committee. A special speaker has been selected as discussion leader for each of the discussion groups. Besides officers and advisors each 4-H parent in Wyandot County is urged to attend.

2nd Graders Take Trip To Galion

Students Learn, Have Fun on Train

SMILING FOR THE CAMERA above are the pupils of the second grades at George Washington School just after they boarded a train Tuesday afternoon at the Union Depot bound for Galion. Some 45 seven and eight-year-olds made the trip as part of their classroom studies on community workers. Standing at the rear, left to right, are Miss Rita Van Meter, second grade teacher; Robert Stief, Union Depot ticket agent; P. A. Davidson of Youngstown, flagman; Mrs. K. Wayne Roush, and Mrs. Betty McNew, second grade teacher.

FOR MANY of the second graders at George Washington School it was their first train trip that they took Tuesday afternoon when they traveled from Marion to Galion on the Erie Railroad.

About 45 second grade pupils at the school accompanied by their teachers, Mrs. Betty McNew and Miss Rita Van Meter, were shown through the mail room, baggage room and ticket office before boarding the special coach which was to take them to Galion. Mrs. K. Wayne Roush, mother of one of the children, also went along.

Once on the train, the seven and eight-year-olds went through the diner and the Pullman.

IN GALION, the children boarded a chartered bus and two station wagons for their trip back to Marion. The party left the school for the railroad station by city bus about 2:15 p.m. and were back in Marion at 4:30 p.m.

The trip was arranged in conjunction with the second graders' unit on community workers, of which the railroads and railroad workers is a phase. A discussion of the workers and their responsibilities, the usefulness of the railroads, and the different types of cars found on freight and passenger trains was held in the classrooms before the trip.

During the trip the children made their own change for the bus and train fares. The trip also afforded the opportunity for them to draw pictures of their experiences, to write thank-you notes to those who made the trip possible, and to use supplementary reading and strip films.

—:—

ROBERT STIEF, Union Depot ticket agent made arrangements for the train trip. William Schorr, travel representative out of Chicago, formerly of Marion, helped escort the children through the train. Mrs. Charles Haromon Jr. and Mrs. L. E. Farquear drove the station wagons from Galion to Marion.

This is the third year that second grade pupils at George Washington School have made the trip to Galion.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

At Harry Underwood's savage gibe, I found that I was doubling for a turkey-cock. It was one thing I told myself for me to resent my father's autocratic behavior; it was something else again for me to hear similar disapproval from anyone else. I turned on Lillian's husband with my nerve ends bristling.

"Really, Harry," I began, and he gave a short laugh.

"Lese majeste," he said, a bit unpleasantly. "Okay! I won't speak out of turn again. And I do want to thank you. You were a thundering good sport—as you always are—to tell her that I am safe and will be seeing her shortly. But what does that word 'shortly' means? Why can't I go down to your suite now?"

"Because you'd put me on the spot," I retorted hotly. "She does not dream that I am seeing you. She thinks that I am on a shopping errand, and Dicky is staying down there in our suite until I get back. Father, no doubt, will arrange for you to see her very soon, but he and I both wish to get this talk of mine with you out of the way first—a talk of which Lillian must know nothing. That is the reason why I don't want you to smoke your own pipe or cigars while I'm here. She would be sure to recognize the odor on my clothing when I come back to her, even though I am planning to take a walk outdoors before returning to our suite."

His heavy eyebrows, dark in striking contest to his white hair, drew together in a forbidding frown.

"I don't understand," he said. "Why all this melodrama? I have no secrets from Lillian, or she from me. Spill me the dirt, Lady Fair; but it's only fair to warn you, I'm not promising to keep what you tell me from Lil."

"Oh-oh!" I breathed to myself, but I did not say the words aloud. Instead, I leaned forward in my chair, and spoke with insistent emphasis.

"Harry, do you believe I am a true friend to you and Lillian?"

His eyebrows unknitted themselves, and there was sincere trust and affection in his eyes as they met mine.

"You are the best and truest friend Lillian ever had," he said fervently, "and you ought to know that I value your friendship and that of the Dicky-bird above everything else except the love of Lillian and of Marion."

I looked at him steadily for several seconds before I spoke again.

"That is a belief which I always have cherished and never doubted,"," I told him, "because Dicky and I have the same feeling toward you and Lillian. But now another question."

I paused and marshaled my words carefully.

"Suppose," I said, "I have discovered that Lillian is suffering from some dangerous disease which she does not suspect. Would you feel that you must tell her about it at once, if I confided my knowledge to you, instad of to her?"

He was out of his chair and bending over me in nothing flat, with his hand gripping my wrists so tightly that I winced from the pressure.

"Tell me this instant what you mean," he commanded. "What is the trouble with Lil? Her heart or — is — it — cancer? I'm going down to her this instant, and to heck with everbody and everything!"

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

CRIME DOESN'T PAY — its income taxes.

This being true now as it was in the sudden-death days of the late and unlamented Scarface Al, the Justice Department has decided to give the modern mugs, who've made millions in labor rackets and hidden terror, the Capone income-tax evasion treatment.

Slowly, but methodically, the Justice Department's Criminal Division is surrounding the mobs who've invaded industry with big money investments in "respectable" businesses.

Special agents of Criminal Division Chief Jim McInerny have just returned to Washington from spot checks—and soon the same kind of experts who clipped Capone will be investigating the books of hundreds of manufacturing plants in cities from New York to the Ohio border. If the labor rackets reach into Chicago, Detroit and as far west as Los Angeles—especially in the multi-billion dollar garment and trucking industries—the hawk-eyed Federal examiners will simply blanket the country.

They'll look for hidden expenses, pay-offs and camouflaged profits.

They'll poke their pencils into payoffs for "protection". And then they'll double back on the mobs themselves to check on the personal income taxes of those who pocketed the folding stuff — and developed galloping amnesia around March 15. The stuff is taxable no matter from whence it comes—and the Criminal Division will take a dim view of failure to report this income.

THERE IS NO DOUBT that such a "survey" will reach into the biggest money in literally thousands of legitimate businesses little thought of by the public as mob territory. There's been so much bugle blowing about crime on the waterfront that the really big mobs —which reach into the highest political circles—have been delighted with the dockside "exposures." These stories have made it appear that the mobs' most lucrative touches have come off the piers. Not true. The big money is in the garment and trucking fields

That's exactly where the government will now concentrate. Chief difficulty will be pulling cooperation out of crusading labor leaders who don't trust many of the Federal D. A.'s or regional police chiefs.

In some cities, for example, it is an open secret that many of the men who succeeded Capone and his enforcers now, with less violence and more subtlety, reach even into the Federal judiciary.

These labor leaders are cynics—but they realize that the Kefauver probes touched off fires which have left smoke seeping out of the big blankets thrown over them by Federal prosecuting attorneys in many a district. Thus, despite the efforts to cover up men now more powerful than Capone or Frankie Costello ever were in their heyday, private and state investigations are ready to rip the mobs wide open.

So the Justice Department now is faced with a race to keep itself from new scandals. Take it for granted, for example, that there is full and completely detailed knowledge of these mob operations in the hands of New York state investigators. There are no secrets —and the atmosphere is just right politically for exposures of mob tie-ups.

SO—EITHER the Justice Department or state police will break the stories and reach for indictments.

None of this is secret from the mobs either. They want to lay low until the campaign is over some six months hence. Typical is the action of Sam Perrone, padrone of Detroit labor rackets. For years his mob had pushed around much of the auto city's labor in general and Walter Reuther and the auto workers in particular. When I was in Detroit late last year, the padrone's sluggers were arrested for practicing their mayhem on auto workers, private homes and automobiles.

They were tried the other day. They "copped a plea"—taking a guilty rap for six months and $1,000 fine. This was a decision by Sam Perrone himself. Undoubtedly he preferred, or was told to prefer, jail on a misdemeanor, which is what the judiciary calls attempts to terrorize a union, rather than a full, spotlighted trial.

The boys all over the nation are going in for some strict self-policing to protect those huge "respectable" investments. They want no more notoriety or violence. Just respectability.

So the Criminal Division figures the tax-evasion technique is the shortest route to Alcatraz.

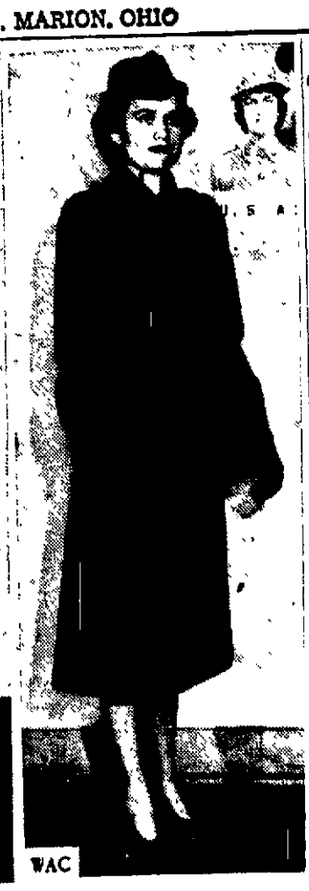
WAVE



WAC

Valuable Branch of Navy

WAVEs' Top Wartime Mark Was 85,000

This is the second of a series of five articles on women's branches of the U.S. military services. In Thursday's Star appeared the first of the series. It told about the WACs, women's branch of the Army which is near its 10th anniversary and now has a drive on to increase its enrollment to 32,000.

By JANE EADS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The WAVEs will be 10 years old on July 30. Like other women in the uniform of war-born military units, the WAVEs have ceaser to be a novelty and have become an institution.

Some naval officers were skeptical about taking women into the service when Congress authorized their enlistment and commissioning in the Women's Reserve of the U.S. Naval Reserve back in 1942. They were convinced their usefulness would end with the war. However, on June 12, 1948, they were made an integral part of the Navy, assured of the same advancement, security, pay allowances and benefits as men. Currently, they're trying to boost their strength to 10,000 enlisted and 1,000 officers.

At first the Navy expected to enlist or appoint only 10,000 women in the Naval Reserve, but the WAVEs were so successful that the organization reached a wartime strength of 85,000. These were on duty in 900 shore activities throughout the United States, and more than 4,000 were assigned to Hawaii. WAVEs currently on duty outside the continental United States are in Alaska, Hawaii, England, Germany, Japan and France. Recently, Lt. Francina Stonesifer, of Charlestown, W. Va., was assigned to the staff of the American Naval attache at Oslo, Norway.

Captain Mildred McAfee Horton, former Wellesley College president, was first Wave director. Capt. Joy B. Hancock now is assistant to the Chief of Naval Personnel for Women.

The name WAVEs, now a misnomer but a nickname that has stuck, originally stood for Women Appointed for Volunteer Emergency Service, a combination of words obviously chosen for its "salty" initial letters.

WAVEs have served in nearly every type of shore activity, including air stations, naval hospitals, district headquarters, navy yards and supply depots.

No WAVEs were killed by enemy action during the war. Capt. Horton was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal, a few WAVEs were awarded the Bronze Star and some got letters of commendation from the Secretary of the Navy.

Galionites Plan League Of Women Voters

GALION—First steps in the organization of the League of Women Voters in Galion were taken at a luncheon meeting Wednesday at Hotel Talbott.

Mrs. Lyle Bristow of Springfield, the former Jessie Amann of Galion, came to Galion to attend the meeting and help with organization plans. The group named Mrs. Don Cleveland as temporary chairman, and planned to hold another meeting Wednesday at First Presbyterian Church.

Students Fill School Posts At Galion

Special to The Star

GALION — Students had their day, Thursday, when they took over the Senior High School, and filled all posts from the board of education, to the administrative positions, the faculty, the secretarial and janitorial jobs.

The Student Day project was proposed by the Student Council for the purpose of helping pupils attain leadership, experience and responsibility. It met the approval of Supt. M. E. Shank and Principal E. R. Pickering.

Five students were nominated from each of the three classes for the board of education, and the candidates were elected by the student body after campaign speeches were heard. Positions of the administration, secretaries, teachers and janitors, were filled by the board of education members who received letters of application from juniors and seniors.

Students who served on the board of education were Elaine Hottenroth who was president, Hoyt Hathaway, vice president, Dorothy Berting, secretary; Don Halsey and Juanita Sautter, other members.

Robert Shaw was superintendent of schools for the day, and David Spaid was principal, assisted by Jack Lewis, vice principal. The secretaries were Bonnie Clark, Marlene Bender, and Erma Barger.

The teachers were: Dick Hinesman, Joel Seckel, Bill Mackey, Anne Weaver, Marilyn King, Marilyn Ritzhaupt, Bonnie Clark, Marilyn Ulmer, Beverly Turner Robinson, Harrietta Seif, Harmon Mansperger, Suzanne Hocker, Paul Schuttera, George Clark, Nancy Immormino, Dick Kerr, Jane Metz, Beverly Clark, Bob Haas, John Stump, Harold Beach, Dorothy Neumann, Carole Powers, John Schalip, Virginia McElroy, Katy Allen, Phil Bunyard, Dolores Bloch, Ted Dickerson, Ray Weithman and Shirlee Young

Altogether, there were 31 seniors and seven juniors serving in various capacities in the high school.

Earlier in the week, a student teacher's meeting was held and plans made to clarify the duties and assignments for Thursday.

Members of the student board of education met with Supt. Shank to learn about duties of a board of education, while the student principal and vice principal, and secretary, conferred with Principal Pickering. The student teachers followed lesson plans for teaching as formulated cooperatively with the regular teachers, while the custodians served directly under the regular custodians.

JOINS MUSIC HONORARY

Theodore L. Rehl, son of Mr and Mrs. Lloyd H. Rehl of near Marion, has been elected to membership in Pi Kappa Lambda, national music honorary, at Oberlin College, where he is a senior. PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

ARABIAN NIGHTS LOVE MAGIC is practiced by Paul Henreid, in the above scene from the new technicolor film, "Thief of Damascus," in which he is starred as a fabulous adventurer. It will be shown Wednesday through Saturday at the North Drive-In Theater, a first run attraction.

New Ohio Presents Technicolor Comedy

Currently playing through Monday at the New Ohio Theater is the technicolor comedy, "Belles On Their Toes," the sequel to the film, "Cheaper By The Dozen," which told the story of the Gilbreth family, mother, father and their 12 children.

The same authors, Frank and Ernestine Gilbreth, have written the second story, and many of the same players are back in the roles they created including Jeanne Crain, Myrna Loy, Barbara Bates, little Roddy McCaskill, Carole Nugent, Teddy Driver, Jimmy Hunt and Anthony Sydes.

Jeffrey Hunter, Edward Arnold, Debra Paget, Hoagy Carmichael, Robert Arthur and Verna Felton have been added to the cast.

"Belles On Their Toes" begins where the other film ended, taking the family through the growing-up years as Mrs. Gilbreth raises 11 children by herself.

Tuesday and Wednesday, a double feature will be shown, including "Pinky" starring Jeanne Crain, and "When My Baby Smiles At Me" with Betty Grable and Dan Dailey.

A double feature also will be shown Thursday through Saturday. Showing will be "Frontier Gal" starring Yvonne DeCarlo, and "Canyon Passage" with Dana Andrews.

Opening in a midnight show next Saturday will be the new newspaper drama, "Deadline — U.S.A.," in which is described the battle of a free and vigorous press against the forces of big city corruption. Starred are Humphrey Bogart, Ethel Barrymore and Kim Hunter.

Bogart plays a crusading editor who will not be intimidated by the rackets machine headed up by boss Tomas Rienzi, enacted in the film by Martin Gabel.

Marion Theater Presents Snuffy Smith Twinbill

Two films dealing with the adventures of Snuffy Smith, the cartoon associate of Barney Google, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion Theater. They are "Private Snuffy Smith" starring Bud Duncan, Edgar Kennedy and Sarah Padden, and "Hillbilly Blitzkrieg" starring Bud Duncan, Edgar Kennedy and Cliff Nazarro.

In the story in the former, Snuffy, a pint-sized hillbilly who runs an illicit still in the Tennessee mountains, joins the army as a camp servant, only to find that the revenue agent who has been annoying him for many years is now the top sergeant of the regiment. The plot of the story in the latter is woven around a radio-controlled rocket ship being considered by the government, and the hair-raising events which ensue when Snuffy is accidentally sent aloft in the careening gadget.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "Darling, How Could You!" starring Joan Fontaine, John Lund, Mona Freeman and Peter Hanson, and "Rhubarb" with Ray Milland and Jan Sterling.

The former, a comedy film, explains what happens when a teenage miss mistakenly concludes that her parents' marriage is headed for the rocks. The latter picture relates the amazing consequences which result when a cat inherits $30 million and the Brooklyn baseball club from an eccentric millionaire.

Showing Thursday through Saturday will be "Three Steps North" starring Lloyd Bridges, Lea Padovani and Aldo Fabrizi, and "Laramie Mountains" starring Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette.

Next Sunday and Monday, the attraction will be "Devil's Doorway" starring Robert Taylor.

THREE-YEAR-OLD STEVE BOGART visited his father on the set during the filming of "Deadline—U.S.A.," newspaper drama which opens in a midnight show next Saturday night at the New Ohio Theater. Also in the picture are Lauren Bacall, the child's mother, and Ethel Barrymore, co-starred with Humphrey Bogart in the film.

Palace Circus Film Stars Betty Hutton

"The Greatest Show on Earth," Cecil B. DeMille's technicolor spectacle in which romance, comedy and an intensely human behind-the-scenes circus story are combined with the excitement and pageantry of the Big Top, is playing through next week at the Palace Theater. It opened Friday.

Made in cooperation with Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey circus, the picture depicts the excitement and thrills that make the circus such a beloved institution.

With Betty Hutton, Charlton Heston, Cornel Wilde, Dorothy Lamour, Gloria Grahame and James Stewart starred at the head of a huge cast, the film tells of what goes on behind the glittering arena displays.

The plot deals with Betty Hutton's daredevil rivalry with fellow-aerialist Cornel Wilde for the coveted trapeze above the center ring, with the strange secret hidden behind James Stewart's clown mask, and the tireless efforts of circus boss Charlton Heston to keep the show on its feet.

Many of the circus performers present their acts in the film, including acrobats, trapeze artists, tightrope walkers, equestrians, clowns, performing elephants and dogs, as well as a menagerie of animals.

Shelley Winters Stars In North Drive-In Film

"Behave Yourself!" a farce-comedy starring Farley Granger and Shelly Winters, will be the attraction Sunday through Tuesday at the North Drive-In Theater.

A story about a pair of newlyweds and their troubles with a gangster mob is told in the picture. A dog which has been trained by one group of gangsters to act as a go-between with another mob brings about all the trouble when he gets away from his trainer and follows the newlywed husband home. Wife thinks the animal is an anniversary present, while the members of both gangs frantically try to get the dog back in order to go through with a million-dollar smuggling scheme.

Another first run picture has been billed to be shown Wednesday through Saturday. It is technicolor adventure, "Thief of Damascus," starring Paul Henreid.

Based on the Arabian Nights tales, the adventure takes place in Damascus in the days of the Arabian Nights, and assembles the fabled characters of Sheherazade, Sinbad, Aladdin and Ali Baba in typical Oriental surroundings.

Irene Dunne Stars In South Drive-In Film

"Never a Dull Moment," a comedy romance co-starring Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the South Drive-In Theater.

The story deals with the misadventures of a sophisticated New York woman when she faces life as the bride of a Western rancher.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday is the comedy-with-music feature, "Red, Hot and Blue," which co-stars Betty Hutton and Victor Mature, with William Demarest and June Havoc in featured roles. Heard in the movie are four song hits by Frank Loesser.

Thursday through Saturday, the attraction will be "Cry Danger," in which Dick Powell and Rhonda Fleming are starred

This picture tells the story of a man who is sent to prison on false charges and who on his release sets out to find those who betrayed him.

"Red Light" Tops Twinbill at State

"Red Light" starring George Raft and Virginia Mayo, and "Fort Defiance" with Dane Clark and Ben Johnson, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State theater.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "Million Dollar Pursuit" and "Lured." The former stars Penny Edwards and Grant With-

St. Louis Rookies Fizzle in Bid for Stardom

FIRST HALF OF DOUBLE PLAY. Eddie Mathews, Boston Braves third baseman, is forced at second in first half of a double play in the first inning against the Cubs in Chicago when Outfielder Tommy Whisenant hit into a double out. Play went from Shortstop Eddie Miksis to Secondbaseman Bob Ramazzotti, who relays to first to complete the play.

Rivera, Mizell Fail To Reach Expected Peak

BY RALPH RODEN
Associated Press sports writer

The expected prides of St. Louis —Rookies Jim Rivera and Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell—have fizzled so far in their bids for major league stardom.

Both recruits, touted during spring training as the probable rookies of the year in the American and National Leagues, have flashed too rarely the form that made them standouts in the minors.

Rivera, 29-year-old outfielder of the Browns, has collected only 13 hits in 66 trips for a lack-luster .197 average. Rivera has ridden the bench of late but was let out Thursday and came through with a game - winning homer against Philadelphia.

Mizell, the gangling lefthander of the Cardinals, has been the victim of the "big inning." The youngster, hailed as a "lefthanded Dizzy Dean," sails along in fine style, then suddenly seems to lose his stuff. He blew up again Friday night, losing his third game as Cincinnati beat St. Louis 8-3.

The prize pitching prospect lost his major league debut to Ken Raffensberger and Cincinnati, 2-1 when Joe Adcock socked a two-run triple in the first inning. The next time out Mizell had Chicago beaten, 3-2, going into the eighth inning when he blew up and yielded four runs to be charged with a 6-3 loss.

Wins Third Start

Mizell won his third start, 3-2, with a neat four-hitter over Philadelphia but he bowed Friday to the Reds.

The Cleveland Indians took over first place in the American League from the Boston Red Sox without lifting a bat. The Indians, idled by rain, moved a half-game ahead as the Red Sox dropped a 7-4 decision to the New York Yankees. The Indians had been scheduled to play St. Louis' Browns.

Veterans Johnny Sain and Bobby Hogue, former Boston Brave stablemates, teamed up to stop the Red Sox. Sain drove in three runs on a homer and double before he left at the end of the seventh inning.

Sain was struck on the right kneecap by a liner from the bat of Billy Goodman in the second inning and was forced to retire after the seventh when his knee stiffened.

Ends Losing Streak

Lefty Bill Wight, a former Yankee making his first start, and Sain, were locked in a 2-2 duel going into the sixth when errors by Johnny Pesky and Jim Piersall handed the Yanks three unearned runs and the game. The victory ended a three-game New York losing streak.

The Chicago White Sox won the longest game of the season as they defeated the Detroit Tigers, 8-5, in 16 innings at Detroit. Minnie Minoso tripled home two runs in the 16th and scored the third on Ed Robinson's single. The three runs were unearned as they were set up by Johnny Lipon's error.

Detroit rallied in its half of the 16th, loading the bases with one out but Bill Kennedy ended the four hour and 27-minute battle by striking out George Lerchen and getting Johnny Groth to ground out.

Little Bobby Shantz pitched the Philadelphia Athletics to a 9-3 victory over the Washington Senators in the only American League night game. Shantz permitted six hits in gaining his fourth triumph.

Galion Enters Finals After 7-1 Win Over Toledo School in the regional finals to be played May 16 and 17 at Findlay by virtue of their 7 to 1 defeat of Toledo Woodward Friday afternoon at Findlay. Rain caused the game to be called at the end of five and one-half innings, erasing Galion's four runs in the top half of the sixth.

Bill Enders, Galion's ace pitcher, added another win to his string of seven victories and no losses record. Coach Dick Kerin's Tigers entered district play with a 12 won and two lost record.

Enders struck out 11 batters and walked five in five innings and Zak, Toledo Woodward pitcher, struck out one man and walked four.

Redlegs Whip Cards, Grab Third Place

Cincy Explodes In Lucky Seventh; Trade Rumors Started

ST. LOUIS (AP)—It took the Cincinnati Reds a little longer to solve St. Louis' Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell than the last time they faced him but they finally did it—and good—to grab third place in the National League.

A seven run outburst in the seventh inning sparked the Redlegs to an 8 to 3 victory over the Cardinals Friday night.

The other time Mizzell pitched against Cincinnati the Reds got him for two runs in the first inning and then held on for a 2 to 1 triumph.

Mizell, one of the Cardinals' prize rookies, had Cincinnati blocked off without a run for six innings and then the boys from the Rhineland caught up with him.

Ten men went to bat in the big seventh. They had four hits and profited by a walk, an error and a weird play by Harry (Peanuts) Lowrey.

The big blow was Joe Adcock's home run with Grady Hatton and Bobby Adams on base.

Pulls Boner

Ted Kluszewski followed with a double and then came all the way home when Borkowski flied to Lowrey. Lowrey, apparently thinking it was the third out, ambled in with the ball in his hand and then flipped it to Right Fielder Hal Rice.

Ken Raffensberger allowed the Cards eight hits as he marked up his fourth victory as against two defeats.

Tonight Ewell Blackwell, who hasn't pitched a complete winning game yet this season will try again against Cliff Chambers. Blackwell's only victory in four starts was recorded last Sunday and then he had to have help.

Prior to Friday night's game, Gabe Paul, Reds' general manager, conferred at length with owner Fred Saigh of the Cards. They wouldn't say whether they were talking trade but some guesses were being made that Cincinnati was interested in Wally Westlake, who has seen only limited action with St. Louis this season.

Manager Eddie Stankey gave a flat "no," however, to a question as to whether he was interested in Cincinnati's Dick Sisler.

OSU Gridders To Preview 1952 Chances

Annual Intra-Squad Game To Introduce Hayes' Split-T Attack

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — Ohio state University puts on its 1952 football preview today, climaxing a four-week spring training program.

Close to 15,000 fans, augmented by some 500 Ohio High School coaches who are in town for a two-day clinic, were scheduled to sit in on the regulation fray as Coach Woody Hayes puts his new split-T offense on display.

At this morning's closing clinic sessions the speakers were George Vlerebome of Zanesville and Chuck Riffle of Warren, the mentors who will coach the North-South All-Stars in the all-senior game at Akron in August.

League To Meet

A meeting of the Ohio Scholastic Conference was scheduled today, following the clinic, at which the six-club loop hoped to map its future. Attempts to get a meeting under way the last two days have failed, but Mel Knowlton of Alliance, prexy of the rugged circuit, said he finally had contacted all members.

Alliance, Knowlton said, is definitely out of the league. However, Massillon, Mansfield, Canton McKinley and Warren are ready to carry on, with Toledo Waite on the doubtful list. Members of the Southern Ohio Conference—Portsmouth, Springfield, Lima Central, Hamilton and Middletown—were slated to meet with the northerners today, and some mentors thought a consolidation of some kind was possible.

Mack Pemberton of Columbus West was named president of the High School Coaches Association, succeeding Dick Barrett of Youngstown East, and Chuck Mather of Massillon's perennial champions moved in as vice president.

Directors To Meet

Members elected to the Association's board of directors from eight of the 16 districts were: Region 1—Bus Harding of Toledo Libbey, and Alternate Pat McCarthy of Toledo Central Catholic; Region 3 — Bob Cawrse of East Cleveland Shaw, and alternate Andy Moran of Cleveland Rhodes; Region 5—Seraphim Pope of Lima Central, and Alternate Frank Hanna of Lima South; Region 7—Jim Robinson of Canton Lehman, and Alternate Wade Watts of East Liverpool; Region 9 —Jim McDonald of Springfield Public, and Alternate Bob Martin of Fairborn; Region 11—George Vlerebome of Zanesville, and Alternate Everett Dean of Coshocton; Region 13—Glenn Ellison of Middletown, and Alternate Chet Roush of Dayton Fairmount; Region 15—John Neff of New Lexington, and Alternate T. C. Davies of Ironton.

The even-numbered regions will elect next year.

Rained Into First Place

Tribe Opens Long Home Stand Against St. Louis

CLEVELAND (AP)—Rained into first place again after an absence of 16 days, the Cleveland Indians open their first long 1952 home stand today against the St. Louis Browns.

A throng of 40,000 waited an hour and 10 minutes before the night inaugural here was called off. It was raining before they came into the park and kept up steadily—but not hard enough to force a quick cancellation.

The postponement, coupled with the Boston Red Sox' 7-4 loss to New York, enabled Cleveland to take the league lead by a half game.

Managers of both Cleveland and St. Louis stuck to their pitching choices for the opener of what now is a three-games series. Early Wynn will go after his fifth victory against one defeat, and Tommy Byrne (2-1) will be on the hill for the Browns.

Stops Streak

It was Byrne who beat the Tribe 8-3 in St. Louis April 22—Cleveland's first 1952 setback after seven straight victories. The next day Bob Cain beat Bob Feller 1-0 in a double one-hit contest, and the Browns grabbed first place from the Tribe.

St. Louis was in the unaccustomed top rung spot for only three days before Boston took over. Currently the Browns are in a slump, having lost six of their last eight. Cleveland has won six of its last eight and is riding a five-game winning string.

For Sunday's doubleheader against the Browns, Bob Lemon and Mike Garcia are to hurl for Cleveland, and Manager Rogers Hornsby probably will call on Ned Garver and Duane Pillette. Cain, who has been ailing, might pitch instead of Pillette.

The extra day of rest won't enable any of the Tribe's three ailing regulars to start today. Catcher Jim Hegan, Centerfielder Larry Doby and First Baseman Luke Easter all will stay on the bench with sore muscles.

Trainer Wally Bock says Easter's thigh is so tender he probably won't play before Tuesday night's opener of a three game series with the Yankees.

Boone Comes Through

But Shortstop Ray Boone has done valiantly in Easter's clean-up position. For three games in which he's batted fourth, Boone has driven in nine runs on seven hits in 12 times up.

Last season Boone averaged only .233, but he was hitting in tough luck and wasn't as bad as that percentage. Time and again he hit the ball well, but unfortunately right at some fielder.

The Indians cut their roster to 27 today by sending Dino Restelli, right-hand hitting outfielder, to their Indianapolis American Association farm club on option. Restelli, 27, was obtained on waivers from Washington last December. He trained with the Tribe this spring until the club started east, then left for his home in San Francisco.

Pirates Win District Title

Morrow Co. Nine Laces London, 10-2

Cardington won its third district Class B baseball title in four years on the Ohio State diamonds Friday by lacing London, 10-2.

It was an easy victory for the Pirates who bunched seven hits while Pirate Hurler Brad Landon was limiting the London nine to four safeties.

The Pirates who now have a season record of 13 victories and two losses will draw their regional opponent Monday. Regional play is set for next Friday and Saturday at Ohio State.

Cardington copped the district crown in 1949 and 1951.

Shortstop Roger Davis sparked the Cardington attack Friday with a homer and single out of four trips to drive in four runs.

Cardington jumped into a two-run lead in the first but London bounced back to tie it up in the second. Then the Pirates pushed three across in the third to go ahead for good. They tallied at least one in every frame after that.

Oliver Eats Way To Lead In Greenbrier

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Ed Oliver really has earned his nickname of Porky today by literally eating his way into the halfway lead of the 72-hole Greenbrier Open.

The veteran pro from Lemont, Ill., went over par 70 by a stroke and it might have been worse if he didn't quit during a violent rain storm to feed his face.

When the 5-foot 9½-inch 220-pounder went into the rough at the eighth he was already three behind par. When he returned, the worst of the storm was over and the sun soon was shining again.

Oliver, who had a 61 in the opening round, lost another stroke on the 13th but then snared three birdies for a 71 and a 36-hole total of 132.

That left him one stroke ahead of Jimmy Clark of LaGuna Beach, Calif., and Sam Snead, the host pro.

Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., remained the most consistent, shooting 67 on both rounds. The 134 total put him third and within striking distance of the lead in today's third round.

Dow Finsterwald of Athens, O., tied for sixth with a 68-70—138.

Hill Gail Out Of Preakness, Belmont Races

BALTIMORE (AP)—It's a wide open affair now—the 1952 Preakness, that is. Hill Gail is out.

The flashy winner of the Kentucky Derby was pulled out Friday by Trainer Ben Jones because of an ankle growth.

All week it had been touch and go whether the Calumet star would be in the run for the black-eyed susans next Saturday.

The decision means that Dixiana Stable's Sub Fleet, second in the Derby, becomes the favorite in the Preakness but there likely will be 10 or 11 other three-year-olds willing to contest.

It also means that Hill Gail will not see action in New York's Belmont Stakes or for that matter in any race for several months, according to Jones.

The $75,000-added Preakness will be run at a mile and three-sixteenths next Saturday. The second section of the Derby-Preakness-Belmont triple crown is worth $150,770 right now, and each starter will add another $750.

The Maryland Jockey Club has a list of 15 possible starters and as many as 10 may actually go.

The Preakness will be televised (CBS) to millions around the country.

Buckeye Meet Postponed By Heavy Rainfall

The annual Buckeye League track meet, scheduled Friday night at Fostoria, was postponed to Monday by a heavy rainfall. Meet officials managed to run preliminary heats in four events and the results will stand.

Prelims were completed in the 100 and 220-yard dashes and in the two hurdle events.

Coach Ken Somerlot's crew qualified two in the 120-yard high hurdles, Gary McAfee and Don Ballinger. Paul Geissler of Harding qualified in the 100, the 220 and the 180-yard low hurdles and Jack Garver qualified in the 100 and the 220.

The meet was called after the preliminaries had been run off in a steady drizzle. A heavy downpour turned the track into a mass of mud shortly after 5:30.

Field events will get under way Monday at 5:30 with the finals in the running events set for 6:30. The Harding crew is defending champ at the meet.

Boxing Group Charges IBC With Holding Monopoly

NEW YORK (AP) — The International Boxing Club has been ordered to prove to the New York State Athletic Commission that it does not operate a monopoly.

Robert K. Christenberry, commission chairman, called a hearing for May 16 and then, at the request of the IBC, set it back 45 days to around July 1.

The IBC has been asked to answer charges that it controls champions and leading boxers, big city arenas and radio and television rights for big time boxing and that it has alliances with other promoters contrary to the best interests of boxing.

The promotional body stands to lose its license if its acts are found detrimental to the sport.

Galion Woman One Of Three Generations of Cooks

Special to The Star

GALION—"They say there are born cooks, but I say it takes a lot of common sense and some food technique," declares Galion's Edith Bemiller who supervises food preparation for hundreds of hungry people in Galion.

Probably one of the city's busiest women, Mrs. Bemiller has the distinction of being one of three generations in a family who have made a career of food preparation for the public.

It is her father's recipe for sour-cream dressing that is a favorite with visitors in Galion from the surrounding community.

The third generation to follow the cooking profession in Mrs. Bemiller's family is her daughter, Eileen Bemiller Boice. She has followed in her mother's footsteps since she was in the sixth grade. Now she is Director of Household and Food Service at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, N.Y. She drew up the course of Institutional Management at the college where she lectures twice a week besides supervising all food and household service on the campus.

The influence of food is noticed throughout Mrs. Bemiller's family. Her husband, J. F. Bemiller, former Galion superintendent, calls himself her "official taster," when he is at home from his duties as salesman for a book publishing company. A son, Joe Bemiller is with a meat packing firm in Columbus, and her daughter's husband, W. Q. Boice, also is associated with a meat packing concern out of Boston. Mrs. Bemiller's sister is a caterer in Marion, Indiana.

MRS. EDITH BEMILLER

Served 900 In 12 Minutes

Mrs. Bemiller once was chairman of a committee to prepare and serve food for a factory family picnic in Galion, when 900 persons were served everything in 12 minutes.

Her own special recipe is followed when she oversees the canning of 1200 quarts of tomato juice each year. Another original recipe is used for French dressing which is popular on a salad bowl.

To qualify as one of the city's busiest women, Mrs. Bemiller spends long hours which start at 7:30 a.m., six days a week, and often spends time at night for special parties and banquets, in her position as supervisor of food at Hotel Talbott, here.

All of this would be enough activity for the ordinary person, but not Edith Bemiller. She finds time for her hobby, the raising of 150 African violets, and the cultivation of 75 rose bushes. Added to this she keeps house, belongs to two literary clubs, is a charter member of the Galion Business and Professional Women's club, and belongs to First Methodist Church and the Order of Eastern Star.

Mrs. Bemiller started her cooking career in Mansfield by making candies and cakes. She later opened a restaurant which catered to parties.

She started at the Talbott Hotel in Galion eight years ago.

Morrow County Passes Land Purchase Motion

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD — Morrow County commissioners have passed a motion to purchase 4.67 acres of land in the western part of Mt. Gilead on which to build a Morrow County Children's Home as provided under the terms of the will of the late Charles Ellsworth Parsons.

The land is owned by Ruth Newson and is located just east of the Morrow County Hospital. It has a frontage of 250 feet on Route 95 and has a depth of approximately 800 feet.

Completion of the sale will not be made until the May 19 meeting of the group. Under Ohio law where there is a vote on purchases of over $1,000 by county commissioners they must wait a period of 20 days from the initial action until the purchase is completed.

Parson, a former Troy Township rural mail carrier, who died in 1941, left his estate, now valued at approximately $100,000, to the county for the purpose of constructing a childrens' home in memory of his wife, Isadora.

Commissioners must act by June 1 to start the project or turn the estate over to the Ohio Rural Mail Carriers Association for a home according to a district court ruling.

Leedom Case One of Seven Going To Jury

The fatal knifing of James Owen Leedom will head the docket of seven cases to be presented to the Grand Jury in its regular May session next Thursday.

No charges have been filed in connection with the death of Leedom in City Hospital last Monday as a result of a knife wound received April 28. The Grand Jury will subpena witnesses and decide on action to be taken.

Several courses are open to the Grand Jury. It can decide there is not sufficient evidence to warrant any indictment. Or after hearing witnesses, it can indict some individual on any of a number of counts, including manslaughter or felonious assault.

Marion County Prosecuting Attorney Ralph E. Carhart said police investigation of the knifing is continuing.

All other cases to be considered by the Grand Jury involve individuals charged with specific offenses.

They are: Finus Minton of Cincinnati on a charge of manslaughter in connection with a traffic accident; Charles Weir of near Caledonia on a charge of arson; Albert Lauerhass of Cleveland on a charge of auto theft; Charles D. Holycross of Marion on a charge of auto theft; Jerry White of Marion on a charge of taking indecent liberties with a girl; and Herbert Cluff of near Bucyrus on a charge of forgery.

Marion Church Collects $506

To Be Used To Cover Loss in Camp Fire

First Church of the Nazarene here raised $506 Sunday morning for the purpose of reconstructing buildings destroyed by fire recently at the denomination's camp grounds at Columbus. The local pastor, the Rev. C. L. Wooten, is grounds manager and a member of the Camp Meeting Board and finance committee. Besides a dormitory and its furnishings which were destroyed, a privately owned cottage was burned, and other buildings damaged. Loss was estima tedta about $10,000.

The pastor here reported insurance on the dormitory at $1,500. He said that because of need for a larger kitchen and dining room, camp officials have decided on construction of a new building for preparation and serving of meals, then to convert the one in use for that purpose at present to be a dormitory. The Rev. George Schriber of Zanesville, who has had experience as an architect, was asked to draw plans to be presented to the board Monday. It is hoped that the new building will be ready for this summer's camp sessions. The grounds are used for boys and girls camps, conventions, assemblies, camp meetings and young people's institutes. Many from Marion besides members of the denomination attend the services.

Skeptical Burglars Wreck Open Safe

CLEARFIELD, Utah (UP) — Two lumber yard owners tried everything they could to help someone rob their safe but it wasn't any use.

M. A. McEntire and V. T Hilton wanted to keep their safe from being blown up so they pinned this note on it:

"Notice—there is no cash in this safe. For record storage only." Underneath that, they put down the correct combination.

When two burglars smashed their way into the company office, they ignored the note and went to work with a chisel on the safe's hinges. It was no use. They gave up and settled for a typewriter and a pair of gloves.

Next morning McEntire's son showed up. After calling the police, he gave the safe door an experimental twist. It fell to the floor with a crash.

The safe hadn't even been locked.

LEAVES SOUVENIR

GARY, Ind. (UP) — Raymond Moore reported to police someone stole his overcoat. It wasn't a complete loss though. The thief, apparently shorter than Moore, cut off the coat tails and left them behind.
